WAR FEAR HURTS Great Northern ARMY HI

War, or rather rumors of war, took an awful whack at the Hill liner Great Northern's passenger list this voyage. When the palatial turbiner docked at Pier 16 at 5:30 this morning she brought only 12k first cabin, 24 second and one steerage passenger from San Francisco and Los Angeles, total second and one steerage passenger from San Francisco and Los Angeles, total 153, the smallest list this season to ship's booking list a few days before sailing resembled nothing but page after page of pencil marks over names.

Russell's invallage All to 50 in the Russell's many o, whom had been booked for six months, but who cancelled at the! last minute because of the war scare, lier Hilo passengers totalled 166, of whom 24 were first cabin, 23 second and 119 steerage.

In contrast to the minimum passenger list of the season the liner brought the largest cargo she has had to date. It totalled 2694 tons, every pound she could carry. She brought 327 bags of mail from the mainland and half a Bernard, Mrs. L., San Francisco. Bernard, Lloyd, San Francisco. Bernard, Lloyd, San Francisco.

dozen sacks from Hilo.

Strong Winds Hinder Docking

The puffy but strong trade winds blowing this morning pushed the liner's bow over the wrong way twice just after Captain Ahman had her nose protected attacks in the sile.

after Captain Ahman had her nose pointed straight up the slip. He maneuvered the big turbiner for a few minutes and then went in to the satisfaction of all concerned, making a very pretty docking in spite of the wind's attempt to upset things.

More Than 200 Cancelled

Burser John S. Ford estimated that easily 200 intending passengers had catelled their reservations because of the threatening war outlook. Captain Ahman and he both said that nothing is being said at the San Francisco offices of the Great Northern Pacific Steamship Company as to whether the turbiner will be taken off and turned over to Uncle Sam for a scout or a transport in the event of war with Germany.

The Great Northern will steam for San Francisco again next Tuesday morning April 3, at 16 o'clock, leaving from Pier 16. She will take the next mail to San Francisco.

How would you feel if you were the only passenger in the steerage of a steamer that has accommodations for

The war scare has evidently stopped steerage passengers from booking at San Francisco and Los Angeles because Russell's ioneliness disappeared when the steamer arrived at Hilo because there 119 third class passengers got on. Because of the terrific shrinkage in tourists, the liner brought more from the had plent yof company from the billot today than she did from the coast.
